

THE PRINCIPLE OF APPROACH TRAINING

Advanced Materials Rayonier: training champions and Green Belt

Hervé FURSTOSS

Continuous Improvement Manager, at Rayonier
Advanced Materials

” The SESA SYSTEMS teaching tools are used by RAYONIER ADVANCED MATERIALS on the Tartas plant. They provided a fun way to lead the internal Champions and Green Belt training sessions dedicated to Lean Six Sigma. The 5S, Kaizen and SMED games thus allowed participants to better assimilate the different concepts and to be able to apply them more easily in the company. There is nothing better than real team sharing memories to retain the tools of continuous improvement! ”

Rayonier Advanced Materials is a global producer specializing in complementary high-purity celluloses, and forest products such as lumberboard, newsprint and high-yield pulp.

M. Samir Hanmouti

LEAN Coordinator at TRW:

” These objectives were achieved thanks to APPROACH, the SESA SYSTEMS training-by-playing method. The LEAN OFFICE training game opened the eyes of several groups of TRW INGWILLER employees to the real issues behind the LEAN approach. One section of the staff was thus able to use Value Stream Mapping to implement process improvement projects with impressive results and gains. ”

TRW is the one of the world's leading automotive systems suppliers. The Ingwiller unit makes plastic parts for the automotive sector

TRW: LEAN OFFICE GENERATION—THE WAR ON WASTE!

The project: Since its implementation at TRW's Ingwiller site in Alsace, the LEAN OFFICE approach has demonstrated its effectiveness to the company's 170 employees time and again. Among the most notable benefits are the cutting of lead times related to the intake-modification-recording of orders and sample requests, and the elimination of activities that provide no added value.
